

The Hen Pamper Party

A hen party is a fantastic opportunity to get the girls together for a night of fun and frolics! And raising money for Breakthrough Breast Cancer could make your hen night even more special. Simply treat yourselves to some pampering during the day and then head out to paint to the town pink!

Venues

Whatever your budget, celebrating your hen night by organising an Avon Pink Pamper Party couldn't be easier. Simply invite all the girls around to get pampered and celebrate your final few days of freedom!

- In your own home. Create a fantastic party environment by providing lots of food, drink, music and party games. Invite beauticians around for a day of pamper treatments or ask your friends to do it instead. In the evening you could head out to paint the town pink or stay in for a sophisticated dinner party.
- At your local spa. Ask if you can use their space and if their staff would donate their time free of charge for the party.

Fundraising Ideas

Here are just some ways to raise extra funds at your Hen Pamper Party:

- Provide pampering treatments. In return for donations.
- Chocolate Fountain. Ask for a £5 donation for all the chocolate you can eat.
- Makeover. Treat your friends to the ultimate make over – hair, makeup and clothes – in return for a donation.
- Mr & Mrs. This classic hen party game tests how well the hen knows her future groom but can also be a great fundraiser. Ask each of the hen party guests to suggest a question which is then asked to the future groom. For example, what is the most embarrassing pet name you have for [the bride's name]. The bride then has to try and guess what the groom's answer was. For every question the bride gets right, the person who suggested the question has to make a £2 donation. For every question that the bride gets wrong, she must face a forfeit.
- Host a Luncheon/ Dinner Party. Treat your friends to a three course lunch or dinner at your Hen Pamper Party for a one-off donation.
- Underwear Sale. Ask a local lingerie boutique to bring along some of their wears to sell at your Avon Pink Pamper Party making a donation to Breakthrough Breast Cancer for each sale.
